Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth smiled broadly as she made her appearance for the State Dinner at Government House in Ottawa last night. On the ribbon across her front is the Order of the Garter.—AP Wirephoto.

mony honoring the fallen. They are fol-

Princess Says Canada Within Family Circle

By GEORGE KITCHEN
OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth told the Canadian people tonight that they welcome has made her feel "very at home, so to speak, still in the family circle."
She was glad, she said, to be able to make her first visit "with my husband, who like I do, feels very happy to be among you."

U.N., Red Liaison Men Working on Final Kink

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 11 (Thursday) (AP).—Allied and Communist liaison officers met again at Panmunjom today in an effort to iron out the last kink, barring resumption of the Korean cease fire talks at the new compromise site.
The remaining issue was understood to be just how and when to settle differences over the extent of the neutrality zone.
The U.N. Allied liaison officers, Major Col. James C. Murray, Army, and Lt. Col. Norman R. Edwards, South Korean, met with the Communist liaison officers, Col. Lee So Young, went to the meeting by helicopter.
DEADLY THREAT
Meanwhile, U.S. Eighth Army headquarters reported a millions battle force of 50 United States tanks and thousands of 2nd Division troops played eight miles deep into the Communist fortress line in Eastern Korea Wednesday, creating havoc among fresh Chinese troops before it withdrew.
The brilliant thrust, said Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, "exposes the hope that it would be the end of the month-long battle for 'Heartbreak Ridge.'"
The tanks, headed up by nearly a full regiment of infantry, 3,700 men at full strength, drove up the Munmoo Valley, just below the western slopes of Heartbreak Ridge. They caught the Communists by surprise.

Delegates Spurn Advice On Property Resolution

Special to The Colonist
HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 10. Members of the Union of B.C. Municipalities today over-rode their executive and pushed through a resolution aimed at easing property qualifications for candidates for municipal offices.
The resolution asks an amendment to the Municipal Act to make it possible for any otherwise-qualified citizens who have a $300 stake in real estate to run for mayor, vice, alderman or councillor.
The delegates apparently remembered the case of Victoria alderman candidate Roy Whittie, who was disqualified after the last civic elections when it was found his property qualifications barely failed to pass the provincial requirements, although he had a sizeable cash investment in his home.
The U.B.C.M. executive advised the convention against passing the measure. President Mayor Percy George declared it was "too complicated and too dangerous for the convention to deal with, but the delegates passed it with an overwhelming vote."

They work among the 2,800 American and Canadian soldiers aboard the huge transport ship, the Scotie, Tuesday for Korea to relieve men in the Special Force who have been fighting for nearly a year.

Citizens Wild As Capital Cheers Pair

Day-Long Visit Shared By More Than 100,000

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—Canada's capital tossed its hat in the air today for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip. Old Ottawa, which has been taking visiting dignitaries in stride for a long time, but those with a lingering welcome for the heiress apparent and her royal husband that hasn't been equalled since Elizabeth's Royal parents paid their 1929 call.
A beaming sun poured enough warmth into the autumn day to make it the best of their time in Ottawa.
The Royal pair went through a long day of formal and informal appearances after their 10 a.m. E.F.T. arrival from Quebec, where the 14-day tour began yesterday.
The pace of their tour, running ahead of the laid-down schedule for most of the day, rendered one big Canadian fan happy for at least a time. He was Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.
ST. LAURENT LATE
I know that the Royal movements were beating the clock by 10 minutes. Mr. St. Laurent turned up at the Parliament buildings only six minutes ahead of the scheduled time, which made him four minutes too late to take them on a tour of the Commons chamber. Commons speaker, Russ Macdonald, then over and did the honors there with the Prime Minister arriving in time to take part in ceremonies in other chambers of the legislative buildings, centre block.
For the future contingent looking for what may be the high fashion notes of the next few months, the Princess wore in state blue figure suit for the morning. Her accessories were black. In the afternoon she wore black in a single-breasted suit in what appeared to be a fur-tweed of an off-white color, in perhaps the shade now known as Edinburgh blue. Even these ensembles, her brown curls were tucked into a close-fitting lot of a ruffled, green-black beanie.
Tonight, she donned her de-boudé gown for the second straight evening. The first was in Quebec last night, to attend a formal state dinner. With it she had a gold-white lace gown, a diamond necklace and the blue diagonally worn sash of the Order of the Garter with its star.
The Princess and Prince already had attended the hearts of bias Montreal and French-Canadian Quebec City, and they had no trouble conquering an eager Ottawa.
As they drove through the city, the Princess turned on her generous smile and gave cheerful waves to the thousands of citizens who lined the streets.
An unofficially estimated 100,000 were milling around Constitution Square to see the Princess and Prince Philip on the national day. The Princess and Prince Philip, who were accompanied by other members of the royal family, were met by a large group of Ottawa's youth and other citizens at the Parliament buildings, centre block.
In the far-extended railway committee room of the parliament building, the famous Queen Mary's chapel, surrounded by her dowager grandmother, was received by the Princess from the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, and then presented by her to the National Youth of Canada.

Royal Pair Visit Tower

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip visited the Parliament Hill today. They climbed the Peace Tower in the centre block of the Parliament buildings.
Princess Elizabeth, who had been Minister of the Garter with its star, then and the crown was not sufficient. They went up the Peace Tower which calls for a short en-cave ride a walk of two flights of steps each and another short elevator ride.
From the tower they waved to the crowd below.

Acheson Hints New Plans May End Middle-East Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (INS).—Secretary of State Acheson hinted today Egypt will be asked to join a defense alliance that could solve the Middle East crisis by ending British occupation of the Suez and Sudan.
Acheson told a news conference that "new proposals" will be made to the Egyptian government in the next few days which should end the tension caused by Egypt's move to cancel its agreements with Britain.
His announcement came as the wild anti-western rioting flared in the centre of Cairo following Britain's refusal to recognize Egyptian plans to cancel a 1936 treaty and expel British troops.
Acheson's mention of "new proposals" apparently referred to a reported plan by the U.S., Britain and France to create a Middle East command within the framework of the North Atlantic Pact, providing for an international police force over the Suez and Sudan.
The secretary of state expressed belief that the "new proposals" would furnish a "solution" to the Anglo-Egyptian question "without weakening anti-Soviet defense efforts in the Middle East."
Later, Rahim Bey, Egyptian Ambassador to the U.S., revealed that a Middle East defense alliance has become a greater possibility because of his country's move to terminate its agreements with Britain.
But, at the same time, Mohammed Salah Eddine Pasha, Egypt's foreign minister, said his government would not co-operate with the west unless England withdraws its occupying forces and unless United Nations decisions concerning Israel are enforced.

Arena Will Have Ice For Game on Friday

Unless something unexpected turns up, there will be a playing surface at Memorial Arena by Friday night and the Pacific Coast Hockey League game between Victoria Cougars and Seattle Ironmen will go on as scheduled, arena manager J. A. Dukowski reported early this morning.
Yesterday morning's decision to start ice making despite the small leaks still showing in the brine tank coils is responsible for the unexpected turn of events.
It was decided to go ahead with ice-making in the calculated hope that the coils would hold up until an auxiliary tank is installed. Work on this tank will be rushed and it should be ready within 10 days.

Egypt Holds Sudan Vital

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Oct. 10 (CP).—The rich 1,000,000-square-mile Sudan means two things to Egypt, seeking control after half a century of British rule. Egypt wants control of the entire Nile Valley and the Sudan's vast cotton-planting industry.
The Nile, which flows through the length of Egypt like a huge muddy artery pulsing the Nation's economy, springs largely from the swamps of the Sudan.

R. R. F. Sewell Elected For 20th Year of Office

By T. A. MYERS
Colonist Staff Correspondent
HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 10.—Victoria's R. R. F. Sewell today entered his 20th year as secretary-treasurer of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.
The Union's convention here re-elected him to the post by acclamation.
Only other Vancouver Island man on the Union's new slate of officers is Nanaimo's Mayor E. C. Westwood, who was named to the executive committee.
Victoria's Mayor Percy George, past president of the organization, wasn't even mentioned in nominations. He had declared his intention to drop out of municipal politics when his term expires this December.
New U.B.C.M. president is F. R. Goldworthy of North Vancouver. First and second vice-presidents are Mayor R. E. Sang of Cranbrook and Reeve Charles Schultz of Surrey.
Re-elected as solicitor was Colin McQuarrie of New Westminster. Other executive committee members: Reeve W. R. Beamish of Burnaby; Mayor George Dezell, Prince George; Mayor F. G. Fletcher, Trail; Mayor F. H. Jackson, New Westminster; Ald. W. Jordan, Kamloops; Ald. George C. Miller, Vancouver; and Mayor W. A. Rathbun, Penticton.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Taxes are necessary, of course. But some taxes are fair and others are grossly unfair. British Columbia's sales tax is a heavy burden on the small man, and no amount of angry or pious speech-making can disguise the fact.

are regressive—that is to say, they take a bigger slice out of small incomes than large ones.

The sales tax hits the man of small means. It doesn't even scratch the wealthy man.

I said some taxes are fair. I take that back. Strictly speaking, only one tax is fair, and that is a progressive income tax based on ability to pay.

An economist called Henry George once proposed a "single tax" which would be levied on economic rent, leaving industrial profits and industry untouched. His plan was probably unsound for an industrial society.

How about a different kind of "single tax" levied on personal and corporate incomes? Why not remove all sales taxes and special taxes on this and that, and pile them all into one big income tax?

Had to say, the psychological and political barriers would be too high. If all our taxes were brought into plain view, the total would be staggering. The government would run a grave risk of being swept out of office, because we voters hate to face the ugly truth. We like to have the tax-pill sugar coated.

Since a progressive, or, failing that, a proportional, income tax is the fairest kind of tax, why not increase it gradually and painlessly while reducing other kinds of taxation?

To be honest, that is just what the Federal government seems to be doing. In 1931 income tax was one-fifth of total revenue; in 1940 it was one-third. In 1951, customs receipts were twice income tax receipts, and excise receipts—taxes on liquor, tobacco—were five-sevenths of income tax receipts.

Now income tax yields five times the amount of customs and five times the amount of excise.

In 1950 income tax receipts totaled $1,272,630,191. Total tax revenue was $2,721,117,079. If all taxation was switched to income tax, income tax would be doubled, near enough. But we would be well compensated by a decrease in the price of everything we bought, and we would have the advantage of knowing exactly where we stood.

However, one must not speak too lightly of taxation, because it is a complex study in which experts devote a lifetime.

The sales tax of course, can not be readily abandoned in favor of income tax because the provinces have traded their right to levy income tax for payments from Dominion revenue. To the extent it seems desirable that they should abandon the more blatantly unjust taxes which they levy at present and let the Dominion collect more income tax for them.

Canada has probably advanced far enough now that income tax can be collected far more cheaply and efficiently than sales tax. The political and constitutional obstacles to such a move are huge, and there are some real disadvantages to any transfer of collecting power, but they could be overcome if the people were interested enough.

Although the federal government has increased the proportion of income tax, it has also raised excise taxes to an unfair level. To my mind a total tax of 26 cents on a 10-cent package of cigarettes is far too great a penalty. If I bought two packages of cigarettes a day my average was at least that, not long ago I would pay nearly $100 a year in taxes. Why should smokers be stung to this extent while non-smokers go free?

Prince's Wit Unleashed at Reception

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—You'll be hearing Philip stories popping up all over the place any time now.

The Prince is terrific. The women are saying it with stars in their eyes. The menfolk are saying it, too, because they think he's a good guy.

He turned loose his wit fast becoming celebrated even in the infant stages of the Royal tour, at a reception for the press today and the results were devastating.

People on the Royal train are still talking about an incident that happened Monday as the train moved through the Quebec countryside and unexpectedly came to a halt in a small village.

Several hundred people were out. There were no plans for a reception, but the first thing they knew, Philip was delivering an impromptu speech in French that wowed the habitants.

HELPS PRINCESS

He does a great deal to help the Princess, for she appears to be much more nervous and faint. Time after time he turns to her and smiles.

Today at the press reception they engaged in probably the most informal event of their whole tour. They met 200 reporters and wives from Canada, the U.S., Britain, France, and Russia at Government House.

Philip met Dillon O'Leary and asked what paper he represented. Mr. O'Leary said it was the Vancouver Sun. The Prince glanced at Mr. O'Leary's rather vivid tie, a smile came to his face and he cracked, "Isn't that the Vancouver Sun you're wearing?"

Along the line a woman said how brave the couple was to meet so many people. "Oh," smiled the Prince, "they're no worse than anybody else."

Robert Taylor, Toronto Star reporter, boasted to him of the huge portrait of the Prince the paper has outside its main building.

"How horrible," said the Prince, "when it's had enough life-size." When he met another Toronto paper's man, he laughed and recalled that "When I mentioned Toronto to Premier Duplessis last night, he laughed."

British Electors Cool To Egypt, Iran Crises

LONDON, Oct. 10 (Reuters).—Conservative speakers and hecklers tonight persisted in rubbing in the Labor Government's Middle East troubles, but indications were that the cost of living would crystallize as the chief issue of the Oct. 25 general election.

Party managers in several constituencies reported that electors were concerned mainly with the Egyptian and Iranian crises to the newspaper headlines.

American Said Political Spy

GENEVA, Oct. 10 (CP).—A young American today faced Swiss federal charges of political spying on behalf of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.). The Swiss government accused Charles E. Davis, 24, of Pasadena, Calif., of violating Swiss sovereignty by gathering information about John Carter Vincent, formerly United States minister to Switzerland, and supplying it to McCarthy.

East Germany Willing To Talk Election Terms

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP).—East Germany, prodded by the Russians, declared itself willing tonight to meet most of West Germany's conditions for national unity elections.

The Soviet zone parliament adopted in special session a resolution saying it accepted "the greater part" of the Bonn republic's conditions.

The resolution contained one large catch—a comment that the western proposal for international controls of a national election should be "discussed in common."

To do that, the East proposed to appoint a delegation to meet with one from Bonn.

West Germans pondered the new approach with some skepticism. But the approach was by far the most tempting bait yet held out by the East, which is striving to get some kind of unity talks under way before West Germany is committed finally to partnership in West European defense.

Oddities

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 10 (Reuters).—Income tax officials meeting here tonight came out in favor of "danger money."

Their work is perilous, they said. Members of the Birmingham branch of the inland revenue staff told each other grim stories of armed and angry men invading tax offices and they endorsed a resolution that tax officials who get beaten up should be compensated.

John Blakemore told of a taxpayer who grabbed an official's tie, dragged him over the counter and hit him between the eyes.

"The attacker got away with a small fine," said Blakemore. "The tax collector got nothing."

Another collector told of an irate citizen who pulled a gun on an official and had to be "escorted" from the office.

"It's high time we had danger money," he said.

Sunken Millions In Rommel's Loot

LONDON, Oct. 10 (NANA).—Three rival expeditions are lifting out in a race to recover the $14,000,000 in loot collected in North Africa by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and believed to be at the bottom of the Mediterranean, off the Corsican port of Bastia.

One man preserved the secret of its disposal—29-year-old Peter Fleig, a German diver. It was he who sank the treasure, packed in six watertight boxes, in 160 feet of water.

SEARCH FAILS
The French government has already made a 12-day search, and Fleig himself dived day after day, until bad weather forced the expedition to give up. One of the three expeditions being planned is led by Charles Cancellieri, a lawyer from Nice. A second is being organized at Antibes and a third, which will use a British motor yacht, has already put $2,250 worth of diving equipment ashore at Bastia.

An Important Session Ahead

OPENING against the background of a Royal tour of Canada the new session of parliament does not loom large in the public mind at the moment, yet assuredly there are important matters to be dealt with. The customary vague outlines heralded in the throne speech leave gaps which will not be filled until the legislative details become known, but they are sufficient to indicate the substance of the program ahead.

Prominent among the measures to be put before parliament will be legislation governing the methods of raising funds to pay for the all-inclusive old age pensions scheduled to begin next January. No hint has yet reached the public as to what the government has in mind, whether by way of a special tax or some sliding scale assessment. The pensions bill is large and there is no escape from its payment, which had best be kept in the open and not hidden under any indirect levy. No government service is or can be free, and the nation is well served when this fact is given visible emphasis.

Parliament will be asked to sanction the dispatch of the 27th Brigade to Europe, a mere formality since no other course is consistent with this country's obligations under the Atlantic Pact. Something will also be done about providing revenues for the C.B.C. as an outcome of the Massey report, a subject of much more than passing interest to the multitude of radio listeners.

Then there is the St. Lawrence seaway, now envisaged as a Canadian project in view of 18 years' hesitation on the part of the American Congress, a development which if possible of attainment would be a bold national undertaking. Above all else, perhaps, and certainly the subject of the deepest urgency to the average citizen, is the matter of inflation and what the government proposes to do about it. The throne speech unfortunately gives no hint of any concrete proposals, but by this time the federal cabinet surely cannot be unaware of the prime need for more positive action to curb the rising costs of living than has been evident to date.

Not More Government—Less

THE SUGGESTION of Mr. George S. Mooney, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, that there is need of government in Canada between civic and provincial levels will raise more eyebrows than it will assuage. With one federal, ten provincial and several thousand municipal governments now, this country has enough tax-gatherers to go around for a good long while to come. The senior government takes three months' labor out of every solvent taxpayer's year. Provincial governments have not reached that rate of extraction, but they are reaching for it everywhere. On top of that, each city, town and hamlet has its own tax bill, and abundant excuses why more and more revenues are its special need.

Mr. Mooney's concern, that of co-ordinated regional control, may be a definite symptom in the present-day trend of urban growth but the logical answer is the enlargement of municipal bounds and not the further Balkanization of such areas by intervening new taxing authorities. Here in the Greater Victoria region for example, civic amalgamation is the only eventual answer for four municipalities living cheek by jowl in an area not much more than 4 miles by 7 in physical extent. Even to plead the solution that "regional boards" should be superimposed on top of these four civic governments—whether one board for one purpose or a host of boards for every purpose—is to convey its own answer. Citizens do not wish for more government, but less.

It is quite true that between municipal and provincial provision there is often a lapse with no provision at all. The cure for that, however, is not to add to the number of controls or taxing bodies, but for legislatures to assume all of their responsibilities in unorganized territories and for municipalities to do the same within their own bounds. Nor is there any law which states that province and city may not work companionably together in a given region. This country is still in its period of change and growth. Adding new forms of government would contribute nothing to its progress at this stage.

Education vs. Punishment

THE STRONG support given by the Union of B.C. Municipalities to Oak Bay's resolution calling for legislation against motorists who obstruct the flow of traffic shows that the municipalities regard small's pace driving as an acute traffic problem, as well they might. About the slow-poke, middle-of-the-road driver being a nuisance and often a real danger on much-traveled roads there can be little dispute. On the other hand curing the trouble merely by legislating against it may not be as easy as the municipal councils seem to believe.

The resolution to be presented to the provincial government would make it an offense to drive "so slowly as to impede or block the normal and reasonable movement of traffic." That is eminently sensible in theory; but theory and practice are often poles apart. Many factors besides speed would have to be taken into consideration, and the section which the government is to be asked to add to the Motor Vehicle Act leaves far too much to opinion and individual interpretation. In a given set of circumstances 10 persons might have as many different ideas about what was "normal and reasonable."

Observation in Greater Victoria tends to the conclusion that obstruction is caused not so much by slow speed as by hugging the middle of the road, and in that respect those who drive at a moderate pace are often just as bad as the slow ones. A driver's speed may be reasonable when his position on the road is not. Thoughtless practices of that sort are best corrected by traffic education, of which we hear so much talk but about which regrettably little is being done.

A CONUNDRUM

Sir, Last Friday about midnight I'd just disembarked my friend at his new home when a policeman approached my car. I was morally certain I had broken no laws, and was hoping the officer would be brief since my friend was standing in the heavy rain. What I got was a warning to the effect that I had broken a non-existent law. The constable viewed my driver's permit and stated that in proceeding along the street at a speed between 20 to 25 m.p.h. I had violated "a law they were talking about" and could have been cited for "dangerous driving" because I was going too slow.

After he left, we tried to figure out why the policeman had conducted his little drama. Perhaps business was slow at this time on Friday. Perhaps he hoped we were drunk. Perhaps he hoped I had no license. Perhaps he was just impressing us with his up-to-dateness. None of this added up.

This morning in the cold light of day I feel even more puzzled. How in the name of common sense is a person expected to drive at exactly 30 m.p.h. on unfamiliar streets with visibility impaired by a driving rain? It is my opinion that this minimum speed business can only apply to open highways, under favorable driving conditions.

SIDNEY FLOAT

Sir, I read with deep interest the article regarding a fishermen's wharf for the Sidney area.

We happen to live within approximately 60 feet of the head of the present government wharf at Roberts Bay and can personally vouch that we have never had cause to complain about smell, noise or confusion.

We might add that if we were all as good citizens to our community as the fishermen of this district, there would be no cause for a controversy regarding a project that should rightly be called a small boat harbor and not solely a fishermen's wharf.

The present wharf at Roberts Bay is condemned, but still used by over 30 local fishermen during the fall and winter and by passing pleasure craft at all times of the year, especially when the weather does not permit a landing at Sidney.

As you can gather we have no objection to a small boat harbor being established at Roberts Bay, and this I know is also the view of a substantial number of the other residents on the waterfront of this area.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Sir—I expect everybody is sorry the Community Chest didn't do better, but I do not well see how it could be otherwise.

The Chest evidently required more funds because prices have risen so appallingly and unwarrantably; and this of course is the very reason people could not afford to give more. I myself couldn't give as much this year for the simple reason that I was unable to save anything ahead of time.

We are being run clear into the ground not only does the government fail miserably in its job of controlling prices, but we are forced to pay for its disastrous mistakes and blunders, such as hospital insurance, and are being thoroughly gypped as well, both there and in the matter of 5-year drivers' licenses.

Another thing, a great deal of Chest money goes in families of low income with six, eight or ten children. Why do these people who cannot take care of children have them in such large numbers? I have felt obligated to limit my own family to a number—two—that I can care for myself without being a burden to strangers. Why should I, and others like myself, then support those who foster large numbers of unprovided-for children on an already over-populated world?

I am always willing to donate to charity as much as I can, but I would certainly like most of it to go toward education on birth control.

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT WAS a friend with a keen eye for the passing scene who drew my attention to the paper bag parade.

What is this? Well, it's all those little brown bags you see men carrying on their way to the office. Artists use metal lunch baskets but the white collar brigade rely on paper bags.

When my friend mentioned this current habit I realized how widespread it has become. Half the male population, it seems, doesn't go home for lunch, and half of that half makes do with a few sandwiches, a piece of cake perhaps, and an apple or so.

Carried simply and honestly in a paper bag.

This, surely, is worth noting. Time was when a man, especially if he wore a collar and tie at work, would have preferred being seen dead rather than observed carrying his lunch. A snobbish instinct, in fact, would have made him deny that he ever took a lunch to the office.

Look around you now, the next time you are on a bus or in the downtown area. You will see well-dressed males, dozens of them, armed with a little brown paper bag, quite unconcerned and unembarrassed.

As of course they should be.

True, some men still try to camouflage the circumstance that they don't eat their midday meal in a restaurant. If you look closely you will see a suspicious bulge in a coat pocket, maybe the half of the bag sticking out. Or the lunch packet will be stuck in the folds of a newspaper, or otherwise nearly hidden.

These chaps haven't yet learned to be themselves.

More and more, however, the male is throwing off ancient inhibitions. The paper bag has become the symbol of his release from a fetish.

Take, for example, the paper bags that left of a shopping expedition. Once upon a time the average man would have been shocked to his backbone to be asked to bring home some groceries, or any other commodity that gets wrapped up in brown paper. To be seen on city streets loaded up with parcels was an affront to his dignity as a male.

Or so he thought. Now, fortunately, he has more sense. That is why the streets are full of men with packages that formerly were handled exclusively by women. The pendulum has swung so far, indeed, that sometimes it is the escort who is smothered with parcels while his lady walks by his side unencumbered.

The release of man from past prejudice is nowhere more marked than in the business of shopping itself. There was a day not so long ago when the male of the species strode uncomfortably into a store, if he strode at all, and made his purchase with a set face. Then he made his exit as quickly as possible.

He was out of his element. Not so today. At any hour you may see him rivaling his better half with the care with which he picks his wares. He has got over his stage-fright and his social distaste. He will even dally now, at ease, as he reverses a previous habit and no longer takes the first thing offered him. Then, seemingly quite cheerfully, he walks out of the store with a bundle under "his arm"—wrapped in brown paper. (Why, incidentally, should it always be brown?)

This freedom has not been gained without an inner struggle. Centuries of false pride and the cult of the caste had to be overcome. But the victory was won at last.

Now the way out of bondage finds its ultimate expression in the paper bag parade. In the lunch packets of the white collar brigade.

Reporting From Ottawa

THE Communist party in the United States seems to be disappearing underground—quietly, with as little fanfare as possible.

But its Canadian counterpart, the Labor-Progressive Party, is still very much a going concern in full public view. Nevertheless, it's treading a lot more warily than it used to.

What is sending the American Reds scurrying to cover is the Smith Act and the prosecution of Communist leaders under it. This legislation has proved a potent weapon in the hands of the U.S. authorities, for with it they can convict and imprison Red leaders for advocating the overthrow of the U.S. government by force.

It is a much tougher piece of legislation than the sections of our Criminal Code dealing with sedition—although this is true partly, it must be admitted, because U.S. courts will accept evidence which would not be accepted by Canadian courts.

Canadian Communists realize that parliament could enact a Canadian Smith Act if it so desired. So the Soviet-directed Labor-Progressive Party leaders have been much more circumspect in recent months. Even the rabid Communist tabloid The Tribune, of Toronto, has been somewhat more cautious. But only somewhat. It still beats the drums vigorously to sell Uncle Joe's line.

SMALL companies are desperately hedging against the steel shortage, slashing bids to the bone—and even the marrow—in their eagerness to get defense contracts.

Government contracts, they realize, will at least keep them in operation if their supplies of steel for their normal activities are cut off.

For example, one small firm which makes metal fishing tackle boxes bid on and got a contract to make metal tool boxes for the department of national defense. Its bid came to no more than the cost of materials and labor—nothing for overhead, nothing for profit. It would rather stay in business on a losing, or at best a breaking even, basis than be forced to close because of lack of steel to make tackle boxes.

Another firm got a contract to make 50,000 aluminum stretchers. The government had been buying such stretchers in the U.S. at $35 each. It figured they could be made in Canada for perhaps $10 less, so it called for tenders. The low bidder got the contract at a price of $10 per stretcher—and his material costs alone are $9 per stretcher.

The same tendency to bid low in eagerness to get defense contracts has been observed also in industries which don't use steel. Before Korea one fairly large shoe manufacturer was outbid by another whose bid was 50 cents a pair below the first company's cost.

After Korea, however, the government decided to get ready for war, and placed orders for 1,100,000 pairs of shoes. This is roughly 20 per cent of the nation's production of sturdy, welted shoes, so instead of letting the contracts by competitive bidding, the department of defense production split the huge order among the shoe companies on a cost plus net 5 per cent profit basis.

Considering that the nation's armed forces total only about 81,000 now, it's obvious that the services won't be obvious short of shoes in the event of full mobilization.

N.A.T.O.'s Pay Problem

(From The Montreal Gazette)

MUCH has been said of many of N.A.T.O.'s giant problems, standardization of arms, deciding who can best produce those arms, finding ways to pay for those arms. Quite as great a problem is one that has not yet been much discussed, but which every private in every army will understand, particularly those who served in international forces during the last war. This is the problem of comparative pay rates.

When Canadian troops went to Britain, in the last war, a portion of their pay was withheld. Their pay was not cut, but a portion of it was banked for them. This was done because they would be serving in a country where the service pay was lower and comparative wealth could bring dissatisfaction and dissension among the allied troops. Australian troops, serving with British forces in the Middle East, were denied the immediate use of part of their pay for the same reason.

The American forces did not use this system. Not only were American troops the highest paid of all, but they had it all with them, every payday. The result was that when American troops began to arrive in large numbers in Britain, the Canadian soldier found himself poorer than the American, and the British soldiers, financially, brought up the rear.

When the Australian 7th Division, which had been serving in the Middle East, returned home, it found Australia garrisoned with American troops. The Australians found their recent situation reversed; no longer were they the top-pay boys, as they had been in the British force; now, they were second-best in finances, and in their own country.

The imminent formation of a European army, and the build-up of American, British and Canadian forces on the Continent are sure to bring this problem to the fore. Its solution will be a major headache.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

American, says The Seattle Times, sometimes shy away from public displays of emotion or enthusiasm. And we can just see Gen. MacArthur underlining that word "sometimes."

According to a columnist, the Navajo Indians, incapable of comprehending a million, allude to it as "a big thousand."

We fear that today's situation has got away beyond the Navajos.

REALISM
A muskrat is a muskrat, and not a mutated platinum Mozambique sable-mink, under a new law signed by President Truman. It requires that fur coat labels show the common name of the animal from which the skins came. The law may be a blow to hopeful imagination, but this country seems to have an over-supply. On the other hand, it will extend to the fur trade that kind of stark realism with which we view leaky faucets, the neighbor's children, warts and sixth place baseball teams. From now, on we'll know which animal has been skinned. Sometimes in the past, it has been the customer.

The Milwaukee Journal.

My grandfather, Dr. William T. Hornaday, the zoologist, was known for his belligerence. Consequently, when he came home one day to tell us that he had delivered a crushing blow to one of his bitterest enemies, the family had dire visions.

"Did you attack the man with your fists, William?" asked grandmother in trepidation. He shook his head. "Are we open for libel? Will he sue us for slander?"

"Much too roundabout and subtle for any court to understand," said grandfather with triumph. "On a sudden impulse this afternoon I mailed each of my four children a package of 100 crayons."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

OLD G. K. Chesterton was right when he said that the measure of a metropolis in comparison to a city depended on whether you could sit down on the curb and eat a bun. If nobody pays the slightest attention to you, you are in a metropolis.

By this definition New York is not quite a metropolis yet.

Because if you sit down and ate a bun, among others who would come running would be press photographers eager to find interesting shots to sell to the eternally juvenile click picture papers. Then a cop would come along and make you go into an alley to eat your bun.

But London is a metropolis all right. Nothing surprises London, least of all human behavior. Anybody in London who turns his head or lifts an eyebrow is a visitor from abroad.

One of the things which delight a hillbilly like me in London is the sight of young people in love, walking not merely hand in hand, or even arm in arm, but with arms around each other's waists and gazing raptly into each other's eyes as though they were alone in a meadow. Instead of moving along in the mob down Regent Street or out Kensington High in most cities, towns and villages of the earth, being in love is one of the things the manifestations of which are supposed to be as inconspicuous as possible. But not in London.

There the young stroll rapturously entwined all down the busiest business streets; on the buses, in the tubes, they sit embraced; in all the parks, they lie on the grass, whispering into each other's ears, larking, playing the age-old game of slap and tickle. And nary a soul, not even the old ladies out airing their dogs, give them so much as a glance. In London, you get the curious impression that love is the most natural thing in the world.

Ever Ready

SWITZERLAND is probably the only country in the world that has no regular army (there are only about 500 instructor officers), yet by calling out the militia it can mobilize practically the entire nation in less than 12 hours, says Colonel Max Waibel in an article in the current United Nations World Magazine entitled "Neutral But Not Defenseless."

In order to speed up mobilization and to keep the militia in close touch with their personal weapons and equipment, every Swiss soldier stores his arms—carbine, pistol and even a few rounds—as well as his uniform, in his own home. The cavalry man has his horse with him at home, where he keeps it fit, just as the soldiers of the bicycle and motorcycle units drive their vehicles in civilian life.

At the age of 19, the Swiss citizen enters the army as a recruit and receives basic training for four months, after which he is assigned to an army unit and returns to civilian life. Then each year he is called up for refresher courses, and this may continue up to his 60th year, the age limit for compulsory military service.

Switzerland also has more fortifications per square mile than any other country in the world. And the Swiss army is organized for counter-attack as well as for purely defense missions. It has a genuinely efficient fighter air force, including jets.

Most of their weapons are still of Second World War design, but they are constantly developing many new items, most of them being of Swiss design and Swiss make. In 1951 they appropriated some $170,000,000 for the army, a large amount for a population of only 4,500,000, concludes the article, Neutral—yes, Defenseless—hardly, remarks Colonel Waibel.

For early didst thou leave the world, with powers fresh, undiverted to the world without, Firm to their mark, not spent on other things; Free from the sick fatigue, the languid doubt, Which much to have tried, in much been baffled, brings; O life unlike to ours! Who fluctuate idly without term of scope. Of whom each strives, nor knows for what he strives, And each half lives a hundred different lives; Who wait like thee, but not like thee, in hope.

Thou waitest for the spark from Heaven; and we, Light-half-believers of our casual creed, Who never deeply felt, nor clearly wilt, Whose insight never has borne fruit—in deeds, Whose vague resolves never have been fulfilled; For whom each year we see Breeds new beginnings, disappointments new; Who hesitate and falter life away, And lose tomorrow the ground won today. Canada, according to Ottawa, has worked closely with the U.S. in perfecting the defense screen, waiving regulations which would have denied Americans the right to participate in the work.

Board Ready to Fight School-Opening Order

SALMON ARM, B.C., Oct. 10 (CP)—The Salmon Arm School Board will fight any attempt of the courts to force it to open district schools to pupils from Salmon Arm municipality.

Board members were served with a writ of mandamus today demanding they appear before the supreme court to show cause why pupils in the municipality cannot attend the district schools. The board has indicated it will appeal if the writ is upheld. James Kidston, counsel for the school board, will appear before supreme court Friday. J. L. Jackson, chairman of the school board, said the writ would be "asking the court to do an impossible thing" because it seeks an order to have schools reopened without providing further funds. "The situation has not changed," he said. "We simply cannot operate the schools for all children without the necessary funds." The municipal schools were closed Oct. 1 when ratepayers turned down a proposed special tax levy for school funds.

All Local Schools Inspected In Fire Prevention Week Plan

Every school in Victoria has been inspected and fire drills have been held as part of Fire Prevention Week, Deputy Fire Chief Frank Briggs said yesterday. "I am very pleased by the way the fire drills were conducted," he said.

Briggs, who rides a bicycle to council meetings, suggested that the city should have a nominal sum "Motorists are a lazy breed," he said.

He also pointed out the $1,628,104 fire loss in dwellings in British Columbia during the past year. There was a total of 4,300 fires in the province.

"Smokers' carelessness caused most damage, with a total of 1,453 fires and a loss of $127,219. Children playing with fire caused 74 blazes and a total loss of $69,233," he said.

Fire Funds Now Sought By Sidney

Sidney residents can further fire prevention in their own area this week, Commander F. B. Leigh announced yesterday.

The annual Fire Prevention Week in North Saanich is being marked by an appeal for donations to the fire fund.

Development of Sidney Volunteer Fire Department, said the treasurer of the brigade.

Two objectives are sought, he added, purchase of 800 feet of 2½-inch hose and raising the level of the fire hall, necessitated by regrading of Third Street.

If sufficient funds are received, 400 feet of 1½-inch hose also will be purchased.

Home Building Lecture Course For Veterans

A course of 16 lectures on home building will be sponsored by the Veterans' Land Act administration in Mount View High School, V.I.A., regional supervisor G. L. Chatterton has announced.

If sufficient veteran applicants apply, two courses will run concurrently on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The tentative starting date is Nov. 6, Mr. Chatterton said.

Victoria office of the Veterans' Land Act, Belmont Building, is accepting enrollments. It's expected an enrollment fee will be charged and a minimum number of applications are required.

Makers Feel Some Concern On Price Plan

A Dominion Government plan to ban setting of retail prices by manufacturers is causing considerable apprehension among spokesmen for some industries which would be affected.

The general opinion in Victoria, however, is that more details on the government plan are required before its full effect could be weighed.

"I understand that only about 30 per cent of the products available are now controlled in Canada by set prices," said M. M. Fayon, secretary of the Victoria branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He indicated, however, that if the plan is put through in full, it might benefit departmental stores which have large and constant turnover. Smaller stores often have to work on set prices to establish a profit, he said.

The government disclosure came Tuesday in the Speech from the Throne.

The new laws will be based on a preliminary report by a special committee which studied combines legislation for more than a year. The report recommended that supplies of goods should be prohibited for "requiring or inducing distributors to resell such goods at fixed or minimum resale prices."

A government spokesman said such action, creating greater competition among retailers, could push prices down before Christmas if parliament acted immediately.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Lines are being drawn in the battle of the hair. A newspaper item from Memphis, Tenn., told of 10-year-old Helen Rouse, who had hair 30 inches long. Up rose 10-year-old Hollis A. Hamm of Phoenix, Ariz. Her hair is 34 inches long, Hollis said.

Has your house outgrown its insurance?

by don herold

Houses have been growing again—I mean in value. Is your insurance too scanty? If your house should burn down (or up) tonight, how much would it cost you to rebuild it at today's new higher building prices?

This is the way you should figure whether or not you are carrying enough fire insurance.

The same kind of thinking should be applied to the insurance on your household furnishings—and to insurance against losses of your valuables by burglary and theft.

Don't be half-insured—BE INSURED!

Opening of School Demanded

Special to The Colonist
HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 10.—The Union of B.C. Municipalities unanimously demanded today that the provincial government reopen Salmon Arm School to the district's children.

The whole confused problem of Salmon Arm's School locking was outlined to 200 odd U.B.C.M. convention delegates by Reeve G. L. Thompson of the district municipality of Salmon Arm, at this afternoon's crowded business session.

The Salmon Arm School District, the reeve explained, covers the city itself, the district municipality and sections of unorganized territory.

At the moment 1,000 school children from the city and the unorganized area are attending the big consolidated school in the city. But the district municipality's 529 school children are not.

Reeve Thompson said the school board has refused to educate the district children.

The school board insists it just hasn't enough money to hire enough teachers to go around. And the board says the district municipality hasn't paid its full share of school costs for this year.

When the school board first announced its 1950 estimates, Reeve Thompson said, the city and district pleaded inability to pay.

An arbitration board cut the school board's share of the costs from $38,000 to $42,000.

The school board insisted that wasn't enough. The city, which had based its estimates on the school board's highest figure, had extra money on hand. So did the unorganized territory.

The district municipality, however, had waited until after the ship traveling at 30 knots is actually covering more than 34 miles an hour.

Peace River-Vancouver Gas Pipeline Planned by Companies, Premier Says

British Columbia may be closer to having a natural gas pipeline entirely within its own boundaries than many people believe.

This was indicated yesterday by Premier Byron Johnson, who said he had received word recently that seven gas wells are being drilled and that exploration companies are awaiting discovery and tapping of further supplies.

ment. Association (Victoria Branch) was told this week that over 10,000 acres are under license to oil companies exploring, surveying and drilling. Most work is towards gas supplies. The area under license is comparable to that of Alberta, the Premier said.

From a revenue point of view, the Premier added, the province needs development of that area which is being speeded by the near completion of the Hart Highway from Prince George to Pouce Coupe. It would help sustain the high degree of social services of the province.

Mr. Johnson said he felt coal supplies always would be important in future industrial development, indicating wide use for many millions of tons proven in the Pine Pass area.

At Vancouver, oils were fairly steady and base metals lower on the stock exchange.

At Winnipeg, most prices were lower in active trade on the grain exchange, reflecting heavier hedging sales coincidental with more favorable weather.

The hedging sent flax down 15 to 17 cents. Rye and the deferred months of oats and barley also were lower. Fair shipper buying appeared in oats and barley. Exporters also bought barley as it was reported that 300,000 bushels of this commodity had been sold for export. Americans picked up rye, while seaboard interests bought flax on the declines.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP).—The government today shaved its estimates of this year's crops slightly but still held out the prospect of production about equal to last year, the second largest on record.

A month ago, the outlook was for a slightly larger output than in 1949.

The Agriculture Department, in a harvest-time report, said September declines in cotton and corn production and harvesting losses on late small grains were largely responsible for the reduced estimates.

The department estimated this year's corn crop at 3,104,988,000 bushels, 25,787,000 below last month's forecast. The prediction on wheat was 993,598,000 bushels, 3,551,000 under last month's figure.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. In this case, the problem is that the system is not working properly.

2. The next step is to gather information about the problem. This includes checking the logs, looking at the error messages, and talking to the users.

3. Once you have gathered the information, you need to analyze it. This means looking for patterns, identifying the root cause, and determining the scope of the problem.

4. The next step is to develop a plan to solve the problem. This includes identifying the steps you need to take, the resources you need, and the timeline for the solution.

5. Once you have a plan, you need to implement it. This means making the changes to the system, testing the solution, and communicating the results to the users.

6. The final step is to evaluate the solution. This means checking to see if the problem has been solved, if the system is working properly, and if the users are satisfied.

When a player opens correctly with a shutout bid and his partner responds to that bid, the responder automatically becomes "captain" and should be given the right to make final decisions. Let's apply this generally to a specific deal.

Uncle Wiggly Story

UNCLE WIGGLY'S POTATO SHOTS

Uncle Wiggly was digging potatoes from a field where he had planted them in the spring. Nurse Jane Puzzy Wuzzy, in the rabbit gentleman's hollow stump bungalow, was going to cook the potatoes for supper.

"I hope the potatoes that Nurse Jane cooks will taste as good as those Buster and his chums baked in the bunfire," said Uncle Wiggly to himself as he dug into the ground with his two front paws. "Well, I have my basket nearly full. Soon I will hop back to my bungalow and Nurse Jane can start cooking the potatoes."

Then, once again, Uncle Wiggly heard a rustling noise in the bushes at the edge of the potato field. He had heard the noise at the end of yesterday's story. If you will please remember,

"That must be the wind again," said the rabbit uncle to himself. "But I don't see the bushes moving. So, perhaps, it isn't the wind. I wonder what it can be."

Just then the bushes rustled again and out of them jumped Bunty, the orphan rabbit, with her talking doll, Priscilla.

"Oh, so it was you who made the noise in the bushes, was it Bunty?" said Uncle Wiggly.

"Yes, it was," the orphan rabbit said. "But Nurse helped."

Then out of the bushes jumped Little Nell, another rabbit girl. The two were hopping home from the playhouse.

"What are you doing, Uncle Wiggly?" Susie asked.

"Digging potatoes so Nurse Jane can cook them for supper," answered Mr. Longears.

"Do you need any help?" asked Bunty.

"Thank you, my dear. I do not need any help," answered Uncle Wiggly. "My basket is now filled with potatoes and we can all hop to my bungalow together. Come on, my dear."

As Mr. Longears and the two rabbit girls were about to hop away, there was another rustling in the bushes.

"Was anyone else with you in your playhouse, Bunty, besides Susie?" asked Uncle Wiggly. "I mean any other children?"

"No, Uncle Wiggly, no one but my doll Priscilla. And she isn't in the bushes now. She is here with me."

"So I see," spoke Mr. Longears. "But something made another noise in the bushes and it wasn't the wind. I wonder who it is?"

"Take a look!" growled a voice and this time out of the bushes popped a big fox. He was no relation to Foxy, the goat fox who, with Wolfe the Wolf and Isobelle the bon cat were friends with Mr. Longears. "I made that noise in the bushes!" growled the big fox.

"I helped!" growled another voice. Out of the bushes popped middle-sized Mrs. Fox.

"And I helped!" growled a third voice. Then out of the bushes popped a small boy fox. The three foxes came slowly toward Uncle Wiggly, Bunty, Susie and Priscilla.

"Go away!" On, please go away!" exclaimed Susie.

"No, we are not going away!" growled the big fox.

"Not until we catch you!" growled Mrs. Fox.

"And I am going to tie you two rabbit girls!" growled the boy fox.

"Will you please go away if I have my doll Priscilla sing for you?" Bunty asked politely.

"No!" growled Mrs. Fox. His wife and little boy growled the same.

"Will you go away if I give

New Witness to Appear In Appeal of Davidoff

The Nelson jury which convicted John M. Davidoff of murdering his son Joseph, at Brilliant, B.C., was not sufficiently informed of the importance of certain discrepancies in the Crown's case, counsel for the appellant, A. G. Cameron, said in Appeal Court yesterday.

The appeal on behalf of Davidoff, sentenced to hang December 11 for murdering his son were four main points in the Crown's testimony which were inconsistent and therefore of great importance to the defense. One was the fact that a man seen carrying a rifle on the night of the crime was not sufficiently identified.

"In other words," said Mr. Justice G. H. O'Halloran, "you feel that there is a case for the application of the proverb about chain being only as strong as its weakest link."

She has already established outside the market. Powdered milk will be on hand in the stall this Saturday, as in several places by his faster well as half a ton of potatoes, opponent.

Recital Relaxed, Pleasant

By RAY BAINES

Famed radio and screen baritone Nelson Eddy didn't have to win over many of the hundreds who heard him at the Royal Theatre last night—they obviously were already sold.

But perhaps he won a lot of new fans with a thoroughly pleasant and relaxed program, including everything from "Der Kusse" by Beethoven to "Rose Marie" from the movie of the same name.

Mr. Eddy is not a great baritone—the kind that rattles on your teeth and makes you hang on to your seat—but he succeeds in putting over such a program with a neat touch of humor here and there.

A black note-book for remembering lyrics and an ability to muss up his blond good looks by mugging give the impression that he is an ordinary sort of guy with a very fine voice.

DIVERSE PROGRAM
His program was highly diverse—an Italian aria, a group of German songs including "Al-lerseele" by Richard Strauss and a group of French songs including "Danse Macabre" by Saint-Saens.

These he did well. But a virile quality needed to bring them off was missing.

With numbers like "Val parlais" by Ferrari, this was not so apparent. A rollicking sea-chanty is Mr. Eddy's meat and he tucked this one away heartily.

The Gilbert and Sullivan lullaby song, "The Lord Chancellor's Lullaby," was appropriately humorous and musically pleasant.

ONLY A ROSE
We find "Rose Marie" admittedly a lovely bit of show music in its day, a little hard to take after 10 years. But when someone tossed a rose onto the stage at Mr. Eddy's feet during this number—probably with the sincerest intentions—that was a trifle too much.

Mr. Eddy's real appeal became more apparent during an encore of movie songs, including "Sweethearts" and the "Song of the Mounties." The crowd went wild and there was a lineup of young things at the stage door after the show to complete the picture.

A competent job of accompaniment was turned in by Theodore Paxson.

In all, the whole program was thoroughly pleasant, if not magnificent.

Mr. Eddy seems a wonderful guy with a good voice. We would like to hear him cut loose around a piano with some more of those chancies.

But we would also like him to leave his Mountie suit at home and not sing "The Rosary."
